Registration for school

In Germany school attendance is compulsory for every child at the age of 6 and onwards. In Saxony-Anhalt children attend four years of grammar school. Afterwards different types of school offer different graduations. In secondary schools, children can obtain a certificate after 9 years (Hauptschulabschluss) or 10 years (Realschulabschluss). Alternatively a gymnasium/grammar school can be attended to receive 'Abitur' after 12 years of school, which allows enrolment into higher education. Switching between graduation tracks is possible. There are also schools that accommodate all types of graduation ('Gesamtschule').

To attend school every child has to be registered. Registration is done in the responsible grammar school until the 1st of March in the year before enrolment. If children above 6 years old move to Magdeburg parents have to register it for school attendance. Required for registration are name, date of birth, address, the residence permit status, information on German language abilities and school reports if existing.

As soon as a school is assigned the parents have to visit the school's secretariat. Usually each class has an assigned teacher ('Klassenleiter*in'). After registration it is advised to get in contact with this teacher for additional information, especially about needed material for school and how parents can support their child. If financial aid by the state is provided, additional support for school meals, material, school trips and private lessons can be applied for at the appropriate departments (department for social security and housing or Jobcenter).
